For reasons, he persuaded her to pose as his intended wife—even took her to visit his mother. For reasons, she played his game, wore his ring—forgave him when he kissed her. But when another man and a dashing French beauty joined in—ah, well, that's different—and amusing, too.

SHOT ONLY BY NEGRO AIMED

Palmer Tells of Provocation at Home of Black Suing
Former Sheriff.

M. W. Palmer, deputy sheriff, who is alleged to have seriously wounded Robert Smith, negro farmer, north of Bartlett, in September, 1917, while he and M. G. Tate, then sheriff, Ed Bradley and R. B. Wilroy, deputies, sought to search Smith's house for Benny Smith, Robert Smith's nephew, wanted for shooting another negro, told the jury Thursday that he did shoot Smith twice, but not until after Smith tried to shoot him with a Winchester rifle. Deputies Wilroy and Bradley also testified, telling the same story as that told by Palmer.

Palmer said that while the sheriff and Bradley were at the front door admonishing Smith to let them in, he and Wilroy went to the back door and found the door open. They went in, he said, not having to force their way in. While going in they heard the sheriff and Bradley in the front telling Bob Smith to let them in, that they were officers and were looking for Benny Smith. The negro replied: "I will not let any man in my house after sundown, according to the witness."

Wilroy preceded Palmer through the rear door, when Palmer heard Smith's wife call to him to bring the rifle. "I then entered," testified Palmer, "and told Smith that no one wanted to hurt him, and ordered him to lay his gun down." He said Smith was not sitting on the bed, as the negroes had testified, but standing in the floor with the Winchester rifle in his hands. "He had the gun ready to shoot," Palmer said.

About that time, according to the witness, Bradley appeared at the rear of the house and entered the back door. Smith then sprang like a cat from a trunk where he had seated himself and aimed the gun at Palmer, the deputy said. Bradley closed in and grabbed the gun, which was discharged. At the same time, Palmer said, he fired, hitting Smith in the hand.

The negro, who is a large man, was getting the best of Bradley and he fired again, the bullet taking effect in the body. "Things were looking bad and I never expected to get out of that house alive," Palmer said.

About that time Palmer said George Smith, son of the old man, ran in and grabbed him, breaking his searchlight. To get rid of George he said he knocked him over the head.

He could have shot George if he had wanted to, he said.

In the meantime Smith's wife and Smith were getting the best of Bradley and he, Palmer, struck the woman over the head with his pistol, breaking the handle of the weapon. He said the sheriff did not have a warrant for Benny Smith's arrest. The defense will close its proof Thursday afternoon and the case probably will go to the jury before the closing hour of court.

Winchester Drummer Boy
Regains His Strength

Veteran Tells the
"Boys" What Nu Vim
Did for Him.

"When I beat the charge at Winchester and was wounded three times, I had health enough to recover quickly. Now that I am old, I find that it isn't as easy to get back to physical strength and vigor. My stomach got out of order, so that I couldn't sleep, and I couldn't enjoy anything I ate. I suffered as much as I did when I was wounded. But now that I have learned what Nu Vim will do, I know how to keep myself well, and you may tell the rest of the old boys for me that Nu Vim is just what they are looking for. It straightened up my stomach and built up my strength wonderfully." William H. McCloskey, 232 Lombard St., Pittsburgh, Pa., was a drummer boy at Winchester. He is old enough now to appreciate the value of keeping well. Lots of people of half Mr. McCloskey's 74 years suffer from indigestion, bad stomachs, bad blood, kidney trouble—all from the same cause—the fact that their food does not digest properly. They need Nu Vim, which gives new vigor to the stomach, enables it to digest the food, enriches the blood and helps the kidneys. It straightens out the entire system and builds up strength. Nu Vim is an Iron Tonic, derived from vegetable sources, and whenever or from whatever cause you are weak, you may be sure that Nu Vim will give you strength and life. A bottle of it will convince you that there is no other tonic so good, as it has convinced thousands of others. On sale at Warner's Company's two drug stores, Gayoso Hotel and Bellevue and Linden, and all druggists. If your druggist hasn't it, send $1 and 4 cents revenue to the Nu Vim Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio, and they will send you postpaid one bottle of Nu Vim.
